

Art and Art History

The University of Texas at Arlington
College of Liberal Arts

POSITION: Assistant Professor, Tenure Track, Film/Video at the University of Texas at Arlington. Position start date August 2010.

QUALIFICATIONS: An MFA in Film/Video is required. A strong background in narrative, with experience in 16mm production is required. The applicant should have a meaningful exhibition and/or significant festival record and college level teaching experience.

The applicant must be proficient in film/digital production, screenwriting, pre-production, post production and related software including, Final Cut Pro, Final Draft. The ability to teach Documentary, History of Film or History of Video Art or Sound for film and video would be desirable.

The position requires the faculty member to teach undergraduate courses (with the opportunity to also teach in the MFA program) in film and digital production in the Art and Art History Department, continue to help develop the film and digital programs, advise students, and participate in departmental and community service. The selected candidate must continue to develop both their personal work and reputation as a filmmaker.

Film/Video is a program of study in the Art and Art History Department with four full time faculty, a number of part time faculty and part time equipment room staff. There are over one hundred BFA students and seven MFA students in the area. It is a very "hands on" program with BFA students beginning to make work in their first semester. There are a number of computer labs, film and digital camera and lighting systems, and shooting studio(s) available. In addition, our students benefit from the area being in an Art Department, where many other Studio and Art History classes have a positive and reinforcing influence on their work.

Applicants should enjoy one to one contact with students and understand the importance of individually mentoring them in their development. That has always been the key to our student's noteworthy successes.

Please review our website (www.uta.edu/art/) for detailed information related to our NASAD accredited program. Currently we employ approximately 50 full and part time faculty to teach our growing student community of 800 students.

The University of Texas at Arlington, part of the University of Texas System, is a full service research and teaching university with approximately 28,300 students. The University is located in the center of the Dallas/Fort Worth Metroplex, which has an ethnically diverse population and excellent cultural facilities. The successful candidate must work effectively with students, faculty and staff from all over the world. UT Arlington is committed to enhancing diversity in its faculty and encourages qualified members of historically under-represented groups to apply.

Send letter of application, CV, official transcripts, statement of teaching philosophy, three letters of references (sent directly to UT Arlington by references), to Mary Peterson, Art and Art History, UT Arlington, Box 19089, Arlington, TX 76019.

The University of Texas at Arlington is a n Equal Opportunity and Affirmative Action Employer. Review of applications will begin February 2010 and continue until the position is satisfactorily filled. This is a security- sensitive position, and a criminal background check will be conducted on finalists.

UT Arlington is an Equal Opportunity & Affirmative Action Employer.

FINAL APPROVED