Drug Overdose

Drug overdoses can be accidental or on purpose. The amount of a drug needed to cause an overdose varies with the type of drug and the person taking it. Overdoses from OTC medicines, “street” drugs and/or alcohol can be life threatening. Know too that mixing certain medications or “street” drugs with alcohol can also kill.

The Future of DRUG ABUSE

GHB, Super-G, Liquid-G, Liquid Ecstasy—was originally thought to be a human growth hormone and was abused by body builders until banned in 1991 by the FDA. Taken alone or especially when mixed with alcohol, GHB produces a stupor, vomiting, and coma. It is frequently abused at clubs, parties, and dance clubs and has been used as a date-rape drug. Federal law now makes it a crime for possession of GHB due to drug rapes.

Rohypnol—produced overseas, it is a designer analog of valium but ten times more powerful. When mixed with alcohol it is frequently used as a “date rape” or sexual predator drug. Similar drugs are Soma and Klonopin.

EVE—or MDE, is a closely related analog of MDMA—Ecstasy, but not as popular a Club Drug because it does NOT produce the feeling of emotional closeness of Ecstasy. The EVE experience is one of being “drugged-out” or “stoned” making it a poor choice for Raves. Police labs report 20% of Ecstasy are really knock-off drugs like EVE, PMA, or DXM.

DXM—is very often passed off as Ecstasy at clubs and Raves, it can also be found in many over the counter cold remedies and cough syrups. DXM produces hallucinations and a heavy “stoned” feeling in users but none of the craved Ecstasy effects.

Double Stack—or PMA is a designer analog of meth-amphetamine first used illicitly in Australia. It is often sold as “Ecstasy” but is much more dangerous because it doesn’t produce the pleasurable MDMA effects and users take much more of the drug seeking the high they crave. Overdose causes a dramatic rise in body temperature in excess of 109 degrees and death occurs from hyper-thermia.

Nexus—or 2C-B is an analog of the powerful hallucinatory drug “DOB.” It has much stronger Ecstasy-like feelings of closeness and is highly sought after for its strong sexual enhancement properties, however it produces much less powerful hallucinations than “DOB.” Most pills sold as Nexus do not contain any 2C-B but rather the cheaper DXM. True 2C-B is much more rare than MDMA at this time.

Special K—is a designer analog of PCP, (Angle Dust), and is used as a powerful veterinary tranquilizer which causes hallucinations and stupor. It is abused at Rave parties and dance clubs and is often used as a date-rape drug. It can be smoked, snorted, injected and mixed with other drugs such as heroin. It is not active taken orally unless in very high doses. This drug is highly addictive even though the hallucinatory effect lasts only an hour.

Ice—A smokable form of recrystallized meth-amphetamine with a similar effect of crack cocaine. However, unlike the crack high, which lasts only 10-15 minutes, the ice high lasts 10 hours.

Cat—is a designer analog of meth-amphetamine which has been brought into the country from Russia. Cat produces a cocaine like high with hallucinations similar to mescaline.

YABA—is an ultra pure form of meth-amphetamine which is often combined with caffeine. The pills, small enough to fit into the end of a soda straw, can be coated, flavored, and produce a 10 hour high.

China White—is 6,000 times the potency of pure natural heroin.

There are many designer analogs of the basic narcotic fentanyl and because of their potency they have been responsible for over 2,000 narcotic overdose deaths.
