Job Announcement: Senior Lecturer in English

The University of Texas at Arlington invites applications for a full-time, non-tenure-track Senior Lecturer in English; the position begins in Fall 2012. The primary responsibility of a Senior Lecturer is to teach a 4/4 load, which will be divided between lower-division courses in writing or literature, including Introduction to Textual Analysis and Interpretation (2350), and selected upper-division courses (depending on expertise) in one or more of the following areas: American Literature, British Literature, Comparative Literature, Composition Studies, Creative Writing, Critical Theory, and Rhetoric. Summer and other inter-session teaching is also a possibility. While the position carries no research expectations, travel money is available to present academic work at conferences. Applicants must have a terminal degree in his or her field of expertise (PhD in English, Rhetoric and Composition, or Comparative Literature) and a track record of successful teaching.

Compensation includes full benefits package. Screening of applications will begin on May 21\textsuperscript{st}, and the position will remain open until filled. Applications, which must include a cover letter, a CV, three letters of recommendation, and a teaching portfolio (e.g., statement of teaching philosophy, sample syllabi, and course assignments, etc.), should be sent via email as a PDF attachment to Dr. Kevin Porter (kporter1@uta.edu) or, if electronic submission is not feasible, via mail to Dr. Kevin Porter, Chair, Senior Lecturer Search Committee, Department of English, P.O. Box 19035, University of Texas at Arlington, Arlington, TX 76019-0035. This is a security sensitive position, and a criminal background check will be conducted on finalists. UT Arlington is an Equal Opportunity & Affirmative Action Employer.

Job Announcement: Senior Lecturer in English (Technical Writing)

The University of Texas at Arlington invites applications for a full-time, non-tenure-track Senior Lecturer in English with a specialization in Technical and Professional Writing; the position begins in Fall 2012. The primary responsibility of a Senior Lecturer is to teach a 4/4 course load, which will be divided between lower-division writing courses, such as Technical Writing (ENGL 2338), and selected upper-division courses, including Technical Communication (ENGL 3373); the successful candidate may also, based on his or her expertise, have opportunities to teach upper-division courses in one or more of the following areas: American Literature, British Literature, Computers and Composition, Creative Writing, Critical Theory, Professional Writing, Technical Writing, Rhetoric, and/or World Literature. Summer and other inter-session teaching is also a possibility. While the position carries no research expectations, travel money is available to present academic work at conferences. Applicants must have a terminal degree in his or her field of expertise (PhD in English or Rhetoric and Composition) and a track record of successful teaching.

Compensation includes full benefits package. Screening of applications will begin on May 21\textsuperscript{st}, and the position will remain open until filled. Applications, which must include a cover letter, a CV, three letters of recommendation, and a teaching portfolio (e.g., statement of teaching philosophy, sample syllabi, and course assignments, etc.), should be sent via email as a PDF attachment to Dr. Kevin Porter (kporter1@uta.edu) or, if electronic submission is not feasible, via mail to Dr. Kevin Porter, Chair, Senior Lecturer Search Committee, Department of English, P.O. Box 19035, University of Texas at Arlington, Arlington, TX 76019-0035. This is a security sensitive position, and a criminal background check will be conducted on finalists. UT Arlington is an Equal Opportunity & Affirmative Action Employer.