

Yes. You can attend the Cuernavaca Maymester course by enrolling as a non-degree seeking (special) applicant. The UTA 2006-07 Graduate Catalogue explains this process:

Non-Degree Seeking (Special) Applicants

A person wishing to take graduate courses at The University of Texas at Arlington but not planning to pursue a graduate degree may be admitted as a special non-degree seeking student with approval of the Dean of Graduate Studies and concurrence of the Committee on Graduate Studies in the area in which the applicant wishes to study. In most cases, admission as a special non-degree seeking student is granted only for the purpose of participating in special graduate course offerings, or for taking courses to be transferred to another institution. Under normal circumstances, a student who has been denied admission to or been dismissed from the Graduate School will not be permitted to enroll as a special non-degree seeking student.

An applicant for special non-degree seeking student admission must submit a completed "Special Non-Degree Seeking Student Application" form available online through the Virtual Graduate Admissions Counselor and official transcripts of previous college work showing evidence of an undergraduate degree and, if applicable, a graduate degree. Special non-degree seeking student admission status is granted for the semester for which the application is submitted. Further enrollment as a special non-degree seeking student must be approved on a semester-by-semester basis. Special non-degree students may not hold graduate assistantships or enroll in research, thesis, internship or dissertation courses.

Up to 12 graduate level (5000 and above) semester credit hours earned as a special non-degree seeking student may be applied to a graduate degree program upon recommendation of the appropriate Committee on Graduate Studies and the approval of the Dean of Graduate Studies, subject to the policies on grades and graduate credit described in the General Graduate School Regulations and Information section of this catalog. All grades in courses taken as a special non-degree seeking student will be considered in computing a student's graduate grade-point average.

A former or currently enrolled special student wishing to apply for admission to a graduate degree program must submit a regular Graduate School Application for Admission form, all supporting documents listed in the Admission section of this catalog, and the appropriate application evaluation charge. Admission as a special student in no way guarantees subsequent unconditional admission into a graduate program or into the Graduate School.

NOTE: Immigration regulations do not always permit International students to study as special non-degree seeking students. If you are an International Student, please contact the Graduate School before submitting a Special Non-Degree Seeking Student Application to determine if you may enroll in this status.
