NEW INTERNSHIP OPPORTUNITY

Legal Aid of NorthWest Texas

UTA Pre-Law is partnering up with Legal Aid of NorthWest Texas to provide UTA students a community service opportunity that is directly tied to law, as well as getting to know and serve the community, hands-on.

This Community Revitalization Project will carry on from now through May 2018 focusing on helping low income individuals and informing them of their legal. Because this program is so immersive, it can be counted as an internship. Volunteers will be working closely with attorneys and low income individuals doing everything from working in teams going door to door speaking with individuals directly, conducting surveys, informing individuals of rights, and ensuring a healthy environment, to sitting in on legal advising sessions and court hearings. If you prove your dedication, there is a chance that they may allow you to participate in real legal research and survey writing.

This is an incredible opportunity for anyone looking to apply to law school in the future. It gives you real experience working with real people, solving real problems. Students interested in participating in the Community Revitalization Project should email amber.white@uta.edu for instructions on how to get involved.
