IMPORTANT UPDATES & REMINDERS

✓ The first Pre-Law Society meeting will be held in University Hall Rm. 14 (basement) at noon today. The first Model United Nations meeting will be held on September 11th at noon in UH 14 as well. Those looking to join or find out more information about the organizations are encouraged to attend this first meeting.

✓ There is still time to get your resume submitted for internship opportunities! Please go to the online newsletter using the link above to find out more information on the positions and how to apply.

✓ UTA students will travel on October 27th to the law school forum, which will take place on October 28th. Deadline to sign up for the LSAC Law School Forum is September 9th. There will be sign-ups available today at the Pre-Law Society meeting. Only the first 36 students to sign-up will get to go on this all-expense paid trip to hear from LSAT exam writers, participate in mock first year classes, and meet with law school admissions officers from nearly 200 different law schools around the country. Those interested in going should email amber.white@uta.edu.

The forum is scheduled to take place in Houston and we will monitor the situation down south as more information becomes available. In the event that Houston is removed as the host city due to flooding conditions, a law school forum will still take place in a different city. Students signing up to participate will still get to travel to the next closest location, with costs and expenses covered by UTA & LSAC. So you are still encouraged to sign up to attend!!!!
