Doreen Nyambuka, a senior at Sam Houston High School and student in the Upward Bound Program at UT Arlington was named a TCU Community Scholar.

“TRIO Upward Bound played a significant role in my success because they motivated me and the tutors were always willing to assist me,” said Doreen.

Doreen joined Upward Bound during her sophomore year of high school and continues to be very active in the program. She has been accepted into the UTA TRIO Upward Bound Summer Bridge Program.

About the TCU Community Scholars Program

The Community Scholars Program recruits top candidates from urban, high minority public high schools and offers more than $6 million in scholarships each year. The program, which began in 2000 as an initiative by Chancellor Michael Ferrari to add diversity to the TCU campus, grants full-ride scholarships to students in the DFW area. Upon receiving the award, students accept the scholarship by signing a contract. It asks them to maintain a certain GPA, attend academic workshops, and partake in community service.
