What are the three (3) GPAs calculated by the College of Engineering (COE)
In the University Catalog, scroll down to the heading:

Scroll down to sub heading:
Regulations Regarding Academic Standing
Scroll down to item 10: Three-Calculation GPA

What grades are used to calculate your 3 COE GPAs

Cumulative GPA
- All UTA courses taken and attempts excluding those where a grade forgiveness has been granted

Engr/Math/Sci
- Pre-professional courses completed at UTA which are Engr/Math/Sci
- The social science elective is not part of the pre-professional program. ECON 2305 or IE 2308 is not included in the calculation
- CSE 1310 is a prerequisite to other CSE courses, but it is not used in the Engr/Math/Sci and Major GPA calculation.
- Classes that do not specifically fulfill a requirement in your degree plan do not count towards Engr/Math/Sci GPA. For example, CSE 1310, MATH 1421, and MATH 1302.
- One 4 hour science elective needs to be completed for your degree plan, thus only include one science elective grade in the Engr/Math/Sci GPA calculation even if you have completed two separate science elective courses.

Major
- Pre-professional courses completed at UTA which are CpE.
- CSE 1310 is a prerequisite to other CSE courses, but it is not used in the Engr/Math/Sci and Major GPA calculation.

Based on the 2018/19 requirements

To ensure it is mathematically possible, and to calculate the needed grades required to meet the minimum 2.25 GPA, use the “Raise Your GPA” calculator

COE Three-Attempt Rule
In the University Catalog, scroll down to the heading:
College of Engineering Academic Regulations
Scroll down to sub heading:
Regulations Regarding Work at University of Texas Arlington (UTA)
Scroll down to item 9: Three-Attempt Rule

Grades which constitute an attempt:
- those earned from both UTA and outside institutions; and
- a grade of W and
- D, F, W grades are always considered attempts, even if a grade forgiveness or exclusion has been granted

Grades used to calculate the three (3) COE GPAs:
- All UTA course attempts excluding those where a grade forgiveness or exclusion has been awarded

Grade of D
A grade of D earned outside of UTA does not transfer in.
In the University Catalog, scroll down to the heading:
College of Engineering Academic Regulations
Scroll down to sub heading:
Regulations Regarding Work at UTA
Scroll down to item 5: C-Grade Rule

A grade of D earned at UTA satisfies the requirement for the following courses.
The courses are part of the core curriculum and not in the pre-professional program:
- Creative Arts
- HIST 1301 & 1302
- Language, Philosophy and Culture
- POLS 2311 & 2312
- Social Science (ECON 2305 or IE 2308)
- Math elective*
- Science elective*
- IE 3301
- CSE 4323
- CSE 4342
- 4000 technical elective
*Consult the undergraduate catalog for course descriptions and prerequisites.
Student can receive a D as long as the course is not used as a pre-requisite for another course.
