Relay Games Rules

The relay games will be completed in teams of two. When individuals arrive, they will partner off. There will be 3 rounds with 2 activities each. For each round, only one team member may participate in an activity. Each win of an activity gains a point for their team. In the event of a tie after all rounds are completed, teams will toss a coin. The team that wins the coin toss gets to choose either the corn hole challenge or the Tug of War challenge. The tie breakers will continue until there is a winner!

Round 1:

Tug of War - Two lines will be drawn equidistant from the center on each side, and a bandana will be tied on the center of the rope. A person from both teams will be pitted against each other to pull their half of the rope over their line. Whoever goes over their line first wins!

Corn Hole - The person who did not participate in the tug of war challenge will throw corn hole sacks until they make all 3 into their holes!

Round 2:

Egg Spoon Race - One person from each team will race against each other around and over obstacles. If they drop their egg, they must run back to start and repeat their challenge with the new egg. The first to get to the finish line wins!

Pencil/Cup bouncing - The person who did not participate in the egg spoon race will race against the other team in bouncing three pencils into cups. The first with three pencils in cups wins!

Round 3:

Sack Races - One person from each team will bounce around in a sack race around obstacles. The first to cross the finish line wins! Both legs must remain in the sack at all times.

Ping Pong Exhaustion - The person who did not participate in the sack races will bounce a ping pong ball on a paddle. The last one standing and still bouncing their ping pong ball wins!

Tie Breakers (Teams choose. Determining choice given by coinflip):

Tug of War - The last team standing wins! (you fall, you lose...any part of the body other than feet on the ground is considered “falling”)

OR

Corn Hole - The first team to make 3 holes wins!

Prizes:

Each winning team member gets a $25 gift card to Amazon!
