How Switching To Pass/Fail Grades Might Affect Your Financial Aid

If a student elects to switch one or more of their spring 2020 courses to a Pass/Fail grading system, they should take the following into consideration:

- Changing a course to a pass/fail grading system will not affect any of your current financial aid or scholarships for the spring 2020 semester.
- All students must still adhere to UTA’s Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) policy, including the cumulative GPA requirement. UTA’s SAP policy: https://www.uta.edu/fao/policies/SAP.php
- A passing grade of P does not produce grade points. You still earn credit for a course with a grade of P, but it won’t affect your GPA. On the other hand, a failing grade of F will negatively affect your GPA. Passing grades of P are considered satisfactory. Failing grades of F are considered unsatisfactory.
- Many scholarships require a certain minimum cumulative GPA requirement to be eligible for renewal. These renewal requirements must still be met in order to renew it next school year. Information is available at (https://www.uta.edu/fao/scholarships/index.php) or email us at schol@uta.edu.
- The TEXAS Grant program requires a minimum cumulative GPA requirement to be eligible for renewal (2.5 cumulative GPA as well as complete 24 credit hours).
- A student can receive financial aid for a specific course they’ve already passed only once. Therefore, if you pass a course with a P and retake that same course later, you can only receive financial aid for that specific course one more time.
