What’s the Buzz?

Music
Music is a universal and its power to transform is too! Music has been scientifically found to increase happiness, energy, alertness, even memory and cognitive performance - like studying, taking tests, and writing papers. Music improves our ability to think. It can enhance our brain’s ability to focus and organize information, and improve our coordination systems, including speech to read, write, and listen. Music education also aids our ability to think and learn; it’s information. Music gets us into touch with our emotions, helps us dream, and can connect the inner and outer, even empower deep feelings.

Leo Tolstoy said, “Under the influence of music it seems to me that I feel what I do not really feel, that I understand what I do not understand, that I can do what I cannot do.” Music and its benefits are as diverse and our culture and are in all shapes and sizes to be heard with it. Make music, listen to music, dance to music, move to music, move to music transformed.
