The online, sortable, and filterable list, as well as the PDF version, lists the Fall 2020 Courses and Sections with their proposed basic modes of instruction. Three modes are available: Hybrid, Online, and Face-to-face: definitions below.

Further information will be entered into the MyMav system, but until that occurs this list may help in planning for Fall 2020.

Independent studies, thesis research, dissertation, studio lessons, and other similar courses will be determined by the departments.

If a class or section is not listed, or if you have questions, please contact your advisor or the department for further information.

TBD in the instructor column means "To Be Determined" - no instructor has yet been assigned.

Note: This information is subject to change as the University works through the space allocation process and is subject to the pedagogical needs of the course.

Students who are not able to return to campus this fall, or choose not to do so, will have the option of remote-only learning — i.e., taking all of their classes virtually. Not all classes will be available in this format, so students will need to assess how such a choice would affect their paths toward graduation.

Students that signed up for a face-to-face course who wish to not return to campus, or cannot due to health or other reasons, are encouraged to meet with their advisor to find alternative courses that allow for progress in the major.

DEFINITIONS:

UTA Flexible and Safe Learning Options for Fall 2020 Courses

Students will have a number of options for Fall 2020 courses as the university seeks to provide a safe environment for students, faculty and staff. In many cases, classes will be smaller as we seek to provide social distancing for courses that require an on-campus presence. Students will receive more specifics as faculty post their syllabi in Canvas. Please note that sheet is a
A snapshot in time and is subject to change. The specific type of modality is only listed as the basic type (Hybrid, Online, Face-to-face), in most cases. Students will need to wait until the MyMav Schedule is updated to determine specifics if they are not listed here.

The options for Fall courses are as follows:

ONLINE

Fully Online Anytime (asynchronous) – All instruction and testing online. All classes are asynchronous (recorded) with no requirement for students to come to campus on a specific day or time. (Listed as Fully Online Option #1 in modality definitions)

Online on a Scheduled Time (synchronous): Students take courses online and need to attend online sessions at the scheduled day and time. There is no requirements for students to come to campus. Testing occurs online and may be required at a specific day and time. Dates specified in syllabus. (Listed as Fully Online Option #2 in modality definitions)

HYBRID

Mix of Online and Face to Face (Hybrid): students enroll in classes that combine online and F2F activities. Students may be required to attend F2F class one day per week, or rotate days on campus, or take exams F2F, and/or make presentations F2F. The online portions of the course may be live or it may engage recorded lectures and activities. (Listed as Hybrid #1,2 and 3 in modality definitions). The syllabus will be the official record of the course schedule requirements.

Lab Based or Studio Courses: Laboratory, studio, performance art classes. Customized scheduling based on requirements as described in the syllabus. (Listed as Hybrid #4 in modality definitions)

FACE-TO-FACE

Face-to-face (F2F): Fully F2F. Students must attend class in person and on campus. Classrooms will be used allowing for social distancing and masks are required while in class (online only after Thanksgiving; no face to face testing or other activities on campus after November 24, 2020).
